Helpful Hints:

What is a Roku?

A Roku streaming player is a device used to access online content and stream it to your TV. Millions of people use their Roku players every day to watch their favorite entertainment instantly and on demand.

What can I access with the Library's Roku players?

The Library has loaded digital copies of some of their newest DVD's and Blu-Ray discs to Vudu, an online streaming service. There are also over 50 other free channels including:

- A&E (Television Shows & Web clips)
- All Fitness (Web clips)
- All Recipes.com (Web clips)
- CNET (Web clips)
- ESPN (Web clips)
- History Channel (Movies & Television Shows)
- National Geographic Kids (TV shows & Web clips)
- Pandora (Music)
- PBS (Movies & Television Shows)
- Smithsonian Channel (Movies & TV Shows)
- The Food Channel (Web clips)
- The Wall Street Journal (Web clips)
- The Weather Channel (Web clips)
- Vevo (Music)

How long can I check out a Roku for and what do I need?

Riverside residents 18 and over can check out a Roku player out for 1 week. There are no renewals at this time. You do need to have a home Wi-Fi connection and a Riverside library card in good standing.

What's in the bag:

Roku and Remote

Power Cord

HDMI Cable

A/V Cable (RCA)

1. Plug it in

HDTVs: Use the HDMI Cable

Connect one end to the HDMI port on the back of your Roku player and connect the other end to an HDMI port on your TV.

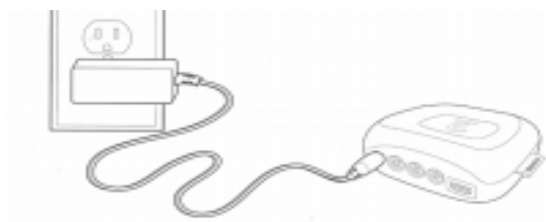

Standard-Definition TVs: Use the A/V Cable

Connect one end to the A/V port on the back of your Roku player and connect the other end into your TV.

Plug one end of the Power Cord into the Roku player and the other into the wall. Once you have done this a white power light on the front of the Roku player will light up.

2. Accessing your player

Power on your TV and look for a Roku message to fill the screen. If your TV does not display a Roku screen, Press the Input button (Or Source button) on your TV remote to cycle through the various video inputs available until you see a Roku screen.

3. Connect to the Internet

Follow the on screen prompts to connect to YOUR internet.

Go to:

Settings > Networks > Set up new Wi-Fi connection

Find your network and connect

4. Enjoy!

Once you have connected to your network, Click the Home button (button with the house icon) on the Roku remote to return to My Channels to start browsing and watching. If you are interested in seeing the digital films that the library has added to Vudu – on the home screen go to “My Channels”. Click on the Vudu icon. When you are in Vudu just go to the “My Vudu” tab and click on either My Movies or My TV. There are more than 100 titles available for you to enjoy. From the Wolf of Wall Street and Gravity to Saving Mr. Banks, Skyfall and Orange is the New Black. Watch as many as you want while you have the Roku player checked out. Best of all - we add more all the time!
